TO
SIR WALTER SCOTT, BART.
THIS MYSTERY OF CAIN, IS INSCRIBED
BY HIS OBLIGED FRIEND, AND FAITHFUL SERVANT,
THE AUTHOR.

PREFACE.

THE following scenes are entitled "a Mystery," in conformity with the ancient title annexed to dramas upon similar subjects, which were styled "Mysteries, or Moralities." The author has by no means taken the same liberties with his subject which were common formerly, as may be seen by any reader curious enough to refer to those very profane productions, whether in English, French, Italian, or Spanish. The author has endeavoured to preserve the language adapted to his characters; and where it is (and this is but rarely) taken from actual Scripture, he has made as little alteration, even of words, as the rhyme would permit. The reader will recollect that the book of Genesis does not state that Eve was tempted by a demon, but by "the serpent;" and that only because he was "the most subtil of all the beasts of the field." Whatever interpretation the Rabbins and the Fathers may have put upon this, I must take the words as I find them, and reply with Bishop Watson, upon similar occasions, when the Fathers were quoted to him, as Moderator in the Schools of Cambridge, "Behold the Book!" holding up the Scripture. It is to be recollected, that my present subject has nothing to do with the New Testament, to which no reference can here be made without anachronism. With the poems upon similar topics I have not been recently familiar. Since I was twenty I have never read Milton; but I had read him so frequently before, that this may make little difference. Gesner's "Death of Abel" I have never read since I was eight years of age, at Aberdeen. The general impression on my recollection is delight; but of the contents I remember only that Cain's wife was called Mahala, and Abel's Thirza. In the following pages I have called them "Adah" and "Zillah," the earliest female names which occur in Genesis; they were those of Lamech's wives: those of Cain and Abel are not called by their names. Whether, then, a coincidence of subject may have caused the same in expression, I know nothing, and care as little.

The reader will please to bear in mind (what few choose to recollect) that there is no allusion to a future state in any of the books of Moses, nor indeed in the Old Testament. For a reason for this extraordinary omission he may consult "Warburton's Divine Legation;" whether satisfactory or not, no better has yet been assigned. I have therefore supposed it new to Cain, without, I hope, any perversion of Holy Writ.

With regard to the language of Lucifer, it was difficult for me to make him talk like a Clergyman upon the same subjects; but I have done what I could to restrain him within the bounds of spiritual politeness.

If he disclaims having tempted Eve in the shape of the Serpent, it is only because the book of Genesis has not the most distant allusion to any thing of the kind, but merely to the Serpent in his serpentine capacity.

Note.—The reader will perceive that the author has partly adopted in this poem the notion of Cuvier, that the world had been destroyed several times before the creation of man. This speculation, derived from the strata and the bones of enormous and unknown animals found in them, is not contrary to the Mosaic account, but rather confirms it: as no human bones have yet been discovered in those strata, although those of many known animals are found near the remains of the unknown. The assertion of Lucifer, that the pre-adamite world was also peopled by rational beings much more intelligent than man, and proportionably powerful to the mammoth, &c. &c. is, of course, a poetical fiction to help him to make out his case.

I ought to add, that there is a "Tramelogedie" of Alfieri, called "Abel."—I have never read that nor any other of the posthumous works of the writer, except his Life.

ACT I.

SCENE I.—The Land without Paradise.—Time, Sun-rise.

ADAM, EVE, CAIN, ABEL, ADAH, ZILLAH, offering a Sacrifice.

Adam. GOD, the Eternal! Infinite! All-Wise!—
Who out of darkness on the deep did'st make Light on the waters with a word—all hail!
Jehovah, with returning light, all hail!

Eve. God! who didst name the day, and separate Morning from night, till then divided never—
Who did'st divide the wave from wave, and call
Part of thy work the firmament—all hail!

Abel. God! who did'st call the elements into Earth—ocean—air—and fire, and with the day
And night, and worlds which these illuminate
Or shadow, madest beings to enjoy them,
And love both them and thee—all hail! all hail!

Adah. God, the Eternal! parent of all things!
Who did'st create these best and beauteous beings,
To be beloved, more than all, save thee—
Let me love thee and them:—All hail! all hail!

Zillah. Oh, God! who loving, making, blessing all,
Yet did'st permit the serpent to creep in,
And drive my father forth from Paradise.
Keep us from further evil:—Hail! all hail!

Adam. Son Cain, my first-born, wherefore art thou silent?

Cain. Why should I speak?

Adam. To pray.

Cain. Have ye not pray'd?

Adam. We have most fervently.

Cain. And loudly, I

Have heard you.

Adam. So will God, I trust.

Abel. Amen!

Adam. But !thou my eldest-born, art silent still.

Cain. 'Tis better I should be so.

Adam. Wherefore so?

Cain. I have nought to ask.

Adam. Nor aught to thank for?

Cain. No.

Adam. Dost thou not live?

Cain. Must I not die!

Eve. Alas!

The fruit of our forbidden tree begins
To fall.

Adam. And we must gather it again.

Oh, God! why did'st thou plant the tree of knowledge!

Cain. And wherefore pluck'd ye not the tree of life?
Ye might have then defied him.

Adam. Oh, my son,
Blaspheime not; these are serpents' words.

Cain. Why not?

The snake spoke truth: it was the tree of knowledge;
It was the tree of life:—knowledge is good,
And life is good; and how can both be evil?

Eve. My boy! thou speakest as I spoke in sin,
Before thy birth: let me not see renew'd
My misery in thine. I have repented.
Let me not see my offspring fall into
The snares beyond the walls of Paradise,
Which e'en in Paradise destroyed his parents.
Content thee with what is. Had we been so,
Thou now hadst been contented. Oh, my son!

Adam. Our orisons completed, let us hence,
Each to his task of toil—not heavy, though

blind obedience

Needful; the earth is young, and yields us kindly
Her fruits with little labour.

Eve. Cain, my son,
Behold thy father cheeiful and resigned,
And do as he doth.

[Exit ADAM and EVE.]

Zillah. Wilt thou not, my brother?

Abel. Why wilt thou wear this gloom upon thy brow,
Which can avail thee nothing, save to rouse
The Eternal anger?

Adah. My beloved Cain,
Wilt thou frown even on me?

Cain. No, Adah! no;
I fain would be alone a little while.
Abel, I am sick at heart; but it will pass:
Precede me, brother.—I will follow shortly.
And you, too, sisters, tarry not behind;
Your gentleness must not be harshly met:
I'll follow you anon.

Adah. If not, I will Return to seek you here.

Abel. The peace of God
Be on your spirit, brother!

[Exit ABEL, ZILLAH, and ADAH.]

Cain (solus.) And this is Life!—Toil! and wherefore should I toil? because
My father could not keep his place in Eden.
What had I done in this?—I was unborn,
I sought not to be born; nor love the state
To which that birth has brought me. Why did he Yield to the serpent and the woman? or Yielding, why suffer? what was there in this?
The tree was planted, and why not for him?
If not, why place him near it, where it grew,
The faires in the centre? They have but
One answer to all questions, "'twas his will,
And he is good." How know I that? Because

X

He is all-powerful, must all-good, too, follow?
 I judge but by the fruits—and they are bitter—
 Which I must feed on for a fault not mine.
 Whom have we here? A shape like to the angels,
 Yet of a sterner and a sadder aspect
 Of spiritual essence: why do I quake?
 Why should I fear him more than other spirits,
 Whom I see daily wave their fiery swords
 Before the gates round which I linger oft,
 In twilight's hour, to catch a glimpse of those Gardens which are my just inheritance,
 Ere the night closes o'er the inhibited walls
 And the immortal trees which overtop
 The cherubim-defended battlements?
 If I shrink not from these, the fire-armed angels,
 Why should I quail from him who now approaches?
 Yet he seems mightier far than them, nor less they
 Beauteous, and yet not all as beautiful
 As he hath been, and might be: sorrow seems Half of his immortality. And is it
 So? and can aught grieve save humanity?
 He cometh.

Enter LUCIFER.

Lucifer. Mortal!

Cain. Spirit who art thou?

Lucifer. Master of Spirits.

Cain. And being so, can'st thou

Leave them, and walk with dust?

Lucifer. I know the thoughts.
Of dust, and feel for it, and with you.

Cain. How!

You know my thoughts?

Lucifer. They are the thoughts of all
Worthy of thought;—'tis your immortal part
Which speaks within you.

Cain. What immortal part?

This has not been reveal'd : the tree of life
Was withheld from us by my father's folly,
While that of knowledge, by my mother's haste
Was pluck'd too soon ; and all the fruit is death !

Lucifer. They have deceived thee ; thou shalt live.

Cain. I live,

But live to die : and, living, see nothing
To make death hateful, save an innate clinging,
A loathsome and yet all invincible
Instinct of life, which I abhor, as I
Despise myself, yet cannot overcome—
And so I live. Would I had never lived !

Lucifer. Thou livest, and must live for ever : think not
The earth, which is thine outward cov'ring, is Existence—it will cease, and thou wilt be
No less than thou art now.

Cain. No less ! and why

No more ?

Lucifer. It may be thou shalt be as we.

Cain. And ye ?

Lucifer. Are everlasting.

Cain. Are ye happy ?

Lucifer. We are mighty.

Cain. Are ye happy ?

Lucifer. No : art thou ?

Cain. How should I be so ? Look on me !

Lucifer. Poor clay !

And thou pretendest to be wretched ! Thou !

Cain. I am :—and thou, with all thy might, what art thou ?

Lucifer. One who aspired to be what made thee, and Would not have made thee what thou art.

Cain. Ah !

Thou look'st almost a god ; and——

Lucifer. I am none :

And having fail'd to be one, would be nought

Save what I am. He conquer'd ; let him reign !

Cain. Who?

Lucifer. Thy sire's Maker, and the earth's.

Cain. And heaven's,

And all that in them is. So I have heard

His seraphs sing ; and so my father saith.

Lucifer. They say—what they must sing and say, on pain

Of being that which I am—and thou art—

Of spirits and of men.

Cain. And what is that?

Lucifer. Souls who dare use their immortality—

Souls who dare look the Omnipotent tyrant in

His everlasting face, and tell him, that

His evil is not good ! If he has made,

As he saith—which I know not, nor believe—

But, if he made us—he cannot unmake :

We are immortal!—nay, he'd have us so,

That he may torture : let him ! He is great,

But, in his greatness, is no happier than

We in our conflict ! goodness would not make

Evil ; and what else hath he made ? But let him

Sit on his vast and solitary throne,

Creating worlds, to make eternity

Less burthensome to his immense existence

And unparticipated solitude !

Let him crowd orb on orb : he is alone

Indefinite, indissoluble tyrant !

Could he but crush himself, 'twere the best boon

He ever granted ; but let him reign on,

And multiply himself in misery !

Spirits and men, at least we sympathise ;

And, suffering in concert, make our pangs,

Innumerable, more endurable,

By the unbounded sympathy of all—

With all ! But He ! so wretched in his height,

So restless in his wretchedness, must still

Create, and re-create——

Cain. Thou speak'st to me of things which long have swum

In visions through my thought ; I never could Reconcile what I saw with what I heard.
My father and my mother talk to me
Of serpents, and of fruits and trees : I see
The gates of what they call their Paradise
Guarded by fiery-sworded cherubim,
Which shut them out, and me : I feel the weight
Of daily toil, and constant thought : I look Around a world where I seem nothing, with Thoughts which arise within me, as if they Could master all things :—but I thought alone
This misery was mine.—My father is Tamed down ; my mother has forgot the mind
Which made her thirst for knowledge at the risk
Of an eternal curse ; my brother is
A watching shepherd boy, who offers up
The firstlings of the flock to him who bids
The earth yield nothing to us without sweat ;
My sister Zillah sings an earlier hymn
Than the birds' matins ; and my Adah, my Own and beloved, she too understands not
The mind which overwhelms me : never till
Now met I aught to sympathise with me.

'Tis well—I rather would consort with spirits.

Lucifer. And hadst thou not been fit by thine own soul
For such companionship, I would not now
Have stood before thee as I am : a serpent
Had been enough to charm ye, as before.

Cain. Ah ! didst thou tempt my mother ?

Lucifer. I tempt none,

Save with the truth : was not the tree, the tree
Of knowledge ? and was not the tree of life
Still fruitful ? Did I bid her pluck them not ?
Did I plant things prohibited within

The reach of beings innocent, and curious
 By their own innocence? I would have made ye
Gods: and even He who thrust ye forth, so thrust ye
 Because "ye should not eat the fruits of life,
 "And become gods as we." Were those his words?

Cain. They were, as I have heard from those who heard them,

In thunder.

Lucifer. Then who was the demon? He Who would not let ye live, or he who would Have made ye live for ever in the joy
 And power of knowledge?

Cain. Would they had snatch'd both
 The fruits, or neither!

Lucifer. One is yours already,
 The other may be still.

Cain. How so?

Lucifer. By being Yourselves, in your resistance. Nothing can Quench the mind, if the mind will be itself
 And centre of surrounding things—'tis made
 To sway.

Cain. But did'st thou tempt my parents?

Lucifer. I?
 Poor clay! what should I tempt them for, or how?

Cain. They say the serpent was a spirit.

Lucifer. Who

Said that? it is not written so on high:
 The proud One will not so far falsify,
 Though man's vast fears and little vanity
 Would make him cast upon the spiritual nature
 His own low failing. The snake was the snake—
 No more; and yet no less than those he tempted,
 In nature being earth also—more in wisdom,
 Since he could overcome them, and foreknew
 The knowledge fatal to their narrow joys.
 Think'st thou I'd take the shape of things that die?

Cain. But the thing had a demon?

Lucifer. He but woke one

In those he spake to with his forked tongue.

I tell thee that the serpent was no more

Than a mere serpent! ask the cherubim

Who guard the tempting tree. When thousand ages

Have roll'd o'er your dead ashes, and your seed's,

The seed of the then world may thus array

Their earliest fault in fable, and thus attribute

To me a shape I scorn, as I scorn all

That bows to him, who made things but to bend

Before this sullen, sole eternity;

But we who see the truth, must speak it. Thy

Fond parents listen'd to a creeping thing,

And fell. For what should spirits tempt them? What

Was there to envy in the narrow bounds

Of Paradise, that spirits who pervade

Space—but I speak to thee of what thou know'st not,

With all thy tree of knowledge.

Cain. But thou canst not Speak aught of knowledge which I would not know,

And do not thirst to know, and bear a mind

To know.

Lucifer. And heart to look on?

Cain. Be it proved.

Lucifer. Dar'st thou to look on death?

Cain. He has not yet

Been seen.

Lucifer. But must be undergone.

Cain. My father

Says he is something dreadful, and my mother

Weeps when he's named; and Abel lifts his eyes

To heaven, and Zillah casts hers to the earth,

And sighs a prayer; and Adah looks on me,

And speaks not.

Lucifer. And thou?

Cain. Thoughts unspeakable

Crowd in my breast to burning, when I hear
 Of this almighty Death, who is, it seems,
 Inevitable. Could I wrestle with him?
 I wrestled with the lion, when a boy,
 In play, till he run roaring from my gripe.

Lucifer. It has no shape; but will absorb all things
 That bear the form of earth-born being.

Cain. Ah!

I thought it was a being: who could do
 Such evil things to beings save a being?

Lucifer. Ask the Destroyer.

Cain. Who?

Lucifer. The Maker—call him
 Which name thou wilt; he makes but to destroy.

Cain. I knew not that, yet thought it, since I heard
 Of death; although I know not what it is,
 Yet it seems horrible. I have look'd out
 In the vast desolate night in search of him;
 And when I saw gigantic shadows in
 The umbrage of the walls of Eden, chequer'd
 By the far-flashing of the cherubs' swords,
 I watch'd for what I thought his coming; for
 With fear rose longing in my heart to know
 What 'twas which shook us all—but nothing came.
 And then I turn'd my weary eyes from off
 Our native and forbidden Paradise,
 Up to the lights above us, in the azure,
 Which are so beautiful: shall they, too, die?

Lucifer. Perhaps—but long outlive both thine and thee.

Cain. I'm glad of that; I would not have them die,
 They are so lovely. What is death? I fear,
 I feel it is a dreadful thing; but what,
 I cannot compass: 'tis denounced against us,
 Both them who sinn'd and sinn'd not, as an ill—
 What ill?

Lucifer. To be resolved into the earth.

Cain. But shall I know it?

Lucifer. As I know not death,
I cannot answer.

Cain. Were I quiet earth,
That were no evil: would I ne'er had been Aught else but dust!

Lucifer. That's a grov'ling wish,
Less than thy father's, for he wish'd to know.

Cain. But not to live, or wherefore pluck'd he not
The life-tree?

Lucifer. He was hinder'd.

Cain. Deadly error!
Not to snatch first that fruit:—but ere he pluck'd
The knowledge, he was ignorant of death.
Alas! I scarcely now know what it is,
And yet I fear it—fear I know not what!

Lucifer. And I, who know all things, fear nothing:— see

What is true knowledge.

Cain. Wilt thou teach me all?

Lucifer. Ay, upon one condition.

Cain. Name it.

Lucifer. That

Thou dost fall down and worship me—thy Lord.

Cain. Thou art not the Lord my father worships.

Lucifer. No.

Cain. His equal?

Lucifer. No:—I have nought in common with him!
Nor would: I would be aught above—beneath—
Aught save a sharer or a servant of His power. I dwell apart; but I am great:—
Many there are who worship me, and more
Who shall—be thou amongst the first.

Cain. I never

As yet have bow'd unto my father's God,
Although my brother Abel oft implores
That I would join with him in sacrifice:
Why should I bow to thee?

Lucifer. Hast thou ne'er bow'd
To him?

Cain. Have I not said it?—need I say it?
Could not thy mighty knowledge teach thee that?

Lucifer. He who bows not to him has bow'd to me!

Cain. But I will bend to neither.

Lucifer. Ne'er the less,
Thou art my worshipper : not worshipping
Him makes thee mine the same.

Cain. And what is that?

Lucifer. Thou'lt know here—and hereafter.

Cain. Let me but
Be taught the mystery of my being.

Lucifer. Follow
Where I will lead thee.

Cain. But I must retire
To till the earth—for I had promised——

Lucifer. What?

Cain. To cull some fruits.

Lucifer. Why?

Cain. To offer up
With Abel on an altar.

Lucifer. Saidst thou not
Thou ne'er hadst bent to him who made thee?

Cain. Yes—
But Abel's earnest prayer has wrought upon me;
The offering is more his than mine—and Adah——

Lucifer. Why dost thou hesitate?

Cain. She is my sister,
Born on the same day, of the same womb; and
She wrung from me, with tears, this promise; and Rather than see her weep, I would, methinks,
Bear all—and worship aught.

Lucifer. Then follow me!

Cain. I will.

Enter ADAM.

Adam. My brother, I have come for thee;

It is our hour of rest and joy—and we Have less without thee. Thou hast labour'd not
This morn ; but I have done thy task ; the fruits
Are ripe, and glowing as the light which ripens :
Come away.

Cain. See'st thou not ?

Adah. I see an angel ;
We have seen many : will he share our hour
Of rest ?—he is welcome.

Cain. But he is not like
The angels we have seen.

Adah. Are there, then, others ?
But he is welcome as they were: they deign'd
To be our guests—will he ?

Cain. (To Lucifer.) Wilt thou ?

Lucifer. I ask
Thee to be mine.

Cain. I must away with him.

Adah. And leave us ?

Cain. Ay,

Adah. And me ?

Cain. Beloved Adah !

Adah. Let me go with thee.

Lucifer. No, she must not.

Adah. Who

Art thou that steppest between heart and heart ?

Cain. He is a god.

Adah. How know'st thou ?

Cain. He speaks like

A god.

Adah. So did the serpent, and it lied.

Lucifer. Thou errest, Adah!—was not the tree that
Of knowledge ?

Adah. Ay—to our eternal sorrow.

Lucifer. And yet that grief is knowledge—so he lied not

And if he did betray you, 'twas with truth ;
 And truth in its own essence cannot be
 But good.

Adah. But all we know of it has gathered
 Evil on ill ; expulsion from our home,
 And dread, and toil, and sweat, and heaviness ;
 Remorse of that which was—and hope of that
 Which cometh not. Cain ! walk not with this spirit.
 Bear with what we have borne, and love me—I Love thee.

Lucifer. More than thy mother and thy sire ?

Adah. I do. Is that a sin, too ?

Lucifer. No, not yet ;
 It one day will be in your children.

Adah. What !

Must not my daughter love her brother Enoch ?

Lucifer. Not as thou lovest Cain !

Adah. Oh, my God !

Shall they not love and bring forth things that love
 Out of their love ? have they not drawn their milk
 Out of this bosom ? was not he, their father,
 Born of the same sole womb, in the same hour
 With me ? did we not love each other ? and
 In multiplying our being multiply
 Things which will love each other as we love
 Them ?—And as I love thee, my Cain ! go not Forth with this spirit ; he is not of ours.

Lucifer. The sin I speak of is not of my making,
 And cannot be a sin in you—whate'er
 It seem in those who will replace ye in Mortality.

Adah. What is the sin which is not Sin in itself ? Can circumstance make sin
 Or virtue ?—if it doth, we are the slaves
 Of—

Lucifer. Higher things than ye are slaves ; and higher

Than them or ye would be so, did they not Prefer an independency of torture
 To the smooth agonies of adulation
 In hymns and harpings, and self-seeking prayers
 To that which is omnipotent, because
 It is omnipotent, and not from love,
 But terror and self-hope.

Adah. Omnipotence
 Must be all goodness.

Lucifer. Was it so in Eden?

Adah. Fiend! tempt me not with beauty; thou art fairer

Than was the serpent, and as false.

Lucifer. As true.

Ask Eve, your mother; bears she not the knowledge
 Of good and evil?

Adah. Oh, my mother! thou
 Hast pluck'd a fruit more fatal to thine offspring
 Than to thyself; thou at the least hast past
 Thy youth in Paradise, in innocent
 And happy intercourse with happy spirits;
 But we, thy children, ignorant of Eden,
 Are girt about by demons, who assume
 The words of God, and tempt us with our own
 Dissatisfied and curious thoughts—as thou
 Wert work'd on by the snake, in thy most flush'd
 And heedless, harmless wantonness of bliss.

I cannot answer this immortal thing
 Which stands before me; I cannot abhor him:
 I look upon him with a pleasing fear,
 And yet I fly not from him; in his eye
 There is a fastening attraction which Fixes my fluttering eyes on his; my heart
 Beats quick; he awes me, and yet draws me near,
 Nearer and nearer; Cain—Cain—save me from him!

Cain. What dreads my Adah? This is no ill spirit.

Adah. He is not God—nor God's! I have beheld

Claudio

The cherubs and the seraphs; he looks not
Like them.

Cain. But there are spirits loftier still—
The archangels.

Lucifer. And still loftier than the archangels.

Adah. Ay—but not blessed.

Lucifer. If the blessedness
Consists in slavery—no.

Adah. I have heard it said
The seraphs love most—cherubim knew most—
And this should be a cherub—since he loves not.

Lucifer. And if the higher knowledge quenches love,
What must he be you cannot love when known;
Since the all-knowing cherubim love least,
The seraphs' love can be but ignorance:
That they are not compatible, the doom
Of thy fond parents, for their daring, proves.
Choose betwixt love and knowledge—since there is No other choice; your sire hath chosen already;
His worship is but fear.

Adah. Oh, Cain! choose love.

Cain. For thee, my Adah, I choose not—it was Born with me—but I love nought else.

Adah. Our parents?

Cain. Did they love us when they snatch'd from the tree
That which hath driven us all from Paradise?

Adah. We were not born then—and if we had been,
Should we not love them and our children, Cain?

Cain. My little Enoch! and his lisping sister!

> Could I but deem them happy, I would half
Forget—but it can never be forgotten

Through thrice a thousand generations! never

Shall men love the remembrance of the man

Who sowed the seed of evil and mankind

In the same hour? They pluck'd the tree of science

And sin—and, not content with their own sorrow,

Begot me—thee—and all the few that are,
 And all the unnumber'd and innumerable Multitudes, millions, myriads, which may be,
 To inherit agonies accumulated
 By ages!—And I must be sire of such things!
 Thy beauty and thy love—my love and joy,
 The rapturous moment and the placid hour,
 All we love in our children and each other,
 But lead them and ourselves through many years
 Of sin and pain—or few, but still of sorrow,
 Intercheck'd with an instant of brief pleasure,
 To Death—the unknown! Methinks the tree of knowledge

Hath not fulfill'd its promise: if they sinn'd,
 At least they ought to have known all things that are
 Of knowledge—and the mystery of death.

What do they know?—that they are miserable.

What need of snakes and fruits to teach us that?

Adah. I am not wretched, Cain, and if thou
 Wert happy——

Cain. Be thou happy then alone——

I will have nought to do with happiness,
 Which humbles me and mine.

Adah. Alone I could not,
 Nor would be happy: but with those around us,
 I think I could be so, despite of death,
 Which, as I know it not, I dread not, though
 It seems an awful shadow—if I may Judge from what I have heard.

Lucifer. And thou could'st not Alone, thou say'st, be happy?

Adah. Alone! Oh, my God!
 Who could be happy and alone, or good?
 To me my solitude seems sin: unless
 When I think how soon I shall see my brother,
 His brother, and our children, and our parents.

Lucifer. Yet thy God is alone, and is he happy?
Lonely and good?

Adah. He is not so; he hath
The angels and the mortals to make happy,
And thus becomes so in diffusing joy:
What else can joy be but the spreading joy?

Lucifer. Ask of your sire, the exile fresh from Eden;
Or of his first-born son; ask your own heart;
It is not tranquil.

Adah. Alas! no; and you—
Are you of heaven?

Lucifer. If I am not, inquire
The cause of this all-spreading happiness
(Which you proclaim) of the all great and good Maker of life and living things; it is
His secret, and he keeps it. We must bear,
And some of us resist, and both in vain,
His seraphs say; but it is worth the trial,
Since better may not be without; there is
A wisdom in the spirit which directs
To right, as in the dim blue air the eye
Of you, young mortals, lights at once upon
The star which watches, welcoming the morn.

Adah. It is a beautiful star: I love it for Its beauty.

Lucifer. And why not adore?

Adah. Our father
Adores the Invisible only.

Lucifer. But the symbols
Of the Invisible are the loveliest
Of what is visible; and yon bright star
Is leader of the host of heaven.

Adah. Our father
Saith that he has beheld the God himself
Who made him and our mother.

Lucifer. Hast thou seen him?

Adah. Yes—in his works.

CAIN.

27

Lucifer. But in his being?

Adah. No—

Save in my father, who is God's own image;
Or in his angels, who are like to thee—
And brighter, yet less beautiful and powerful
In seeming; as the silent sunny noon,
All light they look upon us; but thou seem'st
Like an ethereal night, where long white clouds
Streak the deep purple, and unnumber'd stars
Spangle the wonderful mysterious vault
With things that look as if they would be suns;
So beautiful, unnumber'd, and endearing,
Not dazzling, and yet drawing us to them,
They fill my eyes with tears, and so dost thou.
Thou seem'st unhappy! do not make us so,
And I will weep for thee.

Lucifer. Alas! those tears!

Could'st thou but know what oceans will be shed——

Adah. By me?

Lucifer. By all.

Adah. What all?

Lucifer. The million millions—

Thy myriad myriads—the all-peopled earth—
The unpeopled earth—and the o'er-peopled Hell,
Of which thy bosom is the germ.

Adah. Oh Cain!

This spirit curseth us.

Cain. Let him say on;

Him will I follow.

Adah. Whither?

Lucifer. To a place

Whence he shall come back to thee in an hour;
But in that hour see things of many days.

Adah. How can that be?

Lucifer. Did not your Maker make

Out of old worlds this new one in a few days?
 And cannot I, who aided in this work,
 Show in an hour what he hath made in many,
 Or hath destroy'd in few?

Cain. Lead on.

Adah. Will he

In sooth return within an hour?

Lucifer. He shall.

With us acts are exempt from time, and we
 Can crowd eternity into an hour,
 Or stretch an hour into eternity:

We breathe not by a mortal measurement—
 But that's a mystery. Cain, come on with me.

Adah. Will he return!

Lucifer. Ay, woman! he alone

Of mortals from that place (the first and last
 Who shall return, save ONE)—shall come back to thee,
 To make that silent and expectant world
 As populous as this: at present there
 Are few inhabitants.

Adah. Where dwellest thou?

Lucifer. Throughout all space. Where should I dwell?
 Where are

Thy God or Gods—there am I: all things are Divided with me; life and death—and time—
 Eternity—and heaven and earth—and that
 Which is not heaven nor earth, but peopled with Those who once peopled or shall people both—
 These are my realms! So that I do divide
His, and possess a kingdom which is not
His. If I were not that which I have said, Could I stand here? His angels are within Your vision.

Adah. So they were when the fair serpent
 Spoke with our mother first.

Lucifer. Cain, thou hadst heard.

If thou dost long for knowledge, I can satiate
That thirst; nor ask thee to partake of fruits
Which shall deprive thee of a single good
The conqueror has left thee. Follow me.

Cain. Spirit, I have said it.

Exeunt LUCIFER and CAIN.

ADAM (follows, exclaiming)

Cain ! my brother ! Cain !

A C T II.

SCENE I.—The Abyss of Space.

Cain. I tread on air, and sink not ; yet I fear
To sink.

Lucifer. Have faith in me, and thou shalt be Borne on the air, of which I am the prince.

Cain. Can I do so without impiety.

Lucifer. Believe—and sink not ! doubt—and perish !
thus

Would run the edict of the other God,
Who names me demon to his angels ! they
Echo the sound to miserable things,
Which knowing nought beyond their shallow senses,
Worship the word which strikes their ear, and deem Evil or good what is proclaimed to them
In their abasement. I will have none such :
Worship or worship not, thou shalt behold
The worlds beyond thy little world, nor be Amerced, for doubts beyond thy little life,
With torture of my dooming. There will come
An hour, when toss'd upon some water-drops,
A man shall say to a man, “ Believe in me,
And walk the waters ; ” and the man shall walk
The billows and be safe. I will not say
Believe in me, as a conditional creed
To save thee ; but fly with me o'er the gulf
Of space an equal flight, and I will show,
What thou dar'st not deny, the history
Of past, and present, and of future worlds.

Cain. Oh, god, or demon, or whate'er thou art,
Is yon our earth ?

Lucifer. Dost thou not recognize
The dust which form'd your father?

Cain. Can it be?
Yon small blue circle, swinging in far ether,
With an inferior circlet near it still,
Which looks like that which lit our earthly night?
Is this our Paradise? Where are its walls,
And they who guard them?

Lucifer. Point me out the site
Of Paradise.

Cain. How should I? As we move
Like sunbeams onward, it grows small and smaller,
And as it waxes little, and then less,
Gathers a halo round it, like the light
Which shone the roundest of the stars, when I
Beheld them from the skirts of Paradise:
Methinks they both as we recede from them,
Appear to join the innumerable stars
Which are around us; and as we move on,
Increase their myriads.

Lucifer. And if there should be
Worlds greater than thine own, inhabited
By greater things, and they themselves far more
In number than the dust of thy dull earth,
Though multiplied to animated atoms,
All living, and all doom'd to death, and wretched,
What wouldst thou think?

Cain. I should be proud of thought
Which knew such things.

Lucifer. But if that high thought were Link'd to a servile mass of matter, and,
Knowing such things, aspiring to such things,
And science still beyond them, were chain'd down
To the most gross and petty paltry wants,
All foul and fulsome, and the very best
Of thine enjoyments a sweet degradation,

A most enervating and filthy cheat
To lure thee on to the renewal of Fresh souls and bodies, all foredoom'd to be
As frail, and few so happy——

Cain. Spirit ! I

Know nought of death, save as a dreadful thing
Of which I have heard my parents speak, as of
A hideous heritage I owe to them
No less than life ? a heritage not happy,
If I may judge till now. But, spirit ! if
It be, as thou hast said, (and I within Feel the prophetic torture of its truth)
Here let me die : for to give birth to those Who can but suffer many years and die,
Methinks is merely propagating death,
And multiplying murder.

Lucifer. Thou canst not
All die—there is what must survive.

Cain. The Other
Spake not of this unto my father, when
He shut him forth from Paradise, with death
Written upon his forehead. But at least
Let what is mortal of me perish, that I may be in the rest as angels are.

Lucifer. I am angelic : wouldst thou be as I am !

Cain. I know not what thou art : I see thy power,
And see thou show'st me things beyond my power,
Beyond all power of my born faculties,
Although inferior still to my desires
And my conceptions.

Lucifer. What are they, which dwell
So humbly in their pride, as to sojourn
With worms in clay ?

Cain. And what art thou who dwellest
So haughtily in spirit, and canst range
Nature and immortality—and yet

Seem'st sorrowful ?

Lucifer. I seem that which I am ;
And therefore do I ask of thee, if thou
Wouldst be immortal ?

Cain. Thou hast said, I must be Immortal in despite of me. I knew not
This until lately—but since it must be,
Let me, or happy or unhappy, learn
To anticipate my immortality.

Lucifer. Thou didst before I came upon thee.

Cain. How ?

Lucifer. By suffering.

Cain. And must torture be immortal !

Lucifer. We and thy sons will try. But now, beliold !

Is it not glorious ?

Cain. Oh, thou beautiful
And unimaginable ether ! and
Ye multiplying masses of increased
And still-increasing lights ! what are ye ? what
Is this blue wilderness of interminable
Air, where ye roll along, as I have seen
The leaves along the limpid streams of Eden.
Is your course measur'd for ye ? Or do ye
Sweep on in your unbounded revelry
Through an aerial universe of endless
Expansion, at which my soul aches to think,
Intoxicated with eternity ?
Oh God ! Oh Gods ! or whatsoe'er ye are !
How beautiful ye are ! how beautiful
Your works, or accidents, or whatsoe'er
They may be ! Let me die as atoms die,
(If that they die) or know ye in your might
And knowledge ! My thoughts are not in this hour
Unworthy what I see, though my dust is ;

Spirit! let me expire, or see them nearer.

Lucifer. Art thou not nearer? look back to 'hine earth!

Cain. Where is it? I see nothing save a mass
Of most innumerable lights.

Lucifer. Look there!

Cain. I cannot see it.

Lucifer. Yet it sparkles still.

Cain. What, yonder!

Lucifer. Yea.

Cain. And wilt thou tell me so?

Why, I have seen the fire-flies and fire-worms
Sprinkle the dusky groves and the green banks
In the dim twilight, brighter than yon world
Which bears them.

Lucifer. Thou hast seen both worms and worlds,

Each bright and sparkling—what dost think of them?

Cain. That they are beautiful in their own sphere,
And that the night, which makes both beautiful
The little shining fire-fly in its flight,
And the immortal star in its great course,
Must both be guided.

Lucifer. But by whom or what?

Cain. Show me.

Lucifer. Dar'st thou behold?

Cain. How know I what

I dare behold? as yet, thou hast shown nought
I dare not gaze on further.

Lucifer. On, then, with me,
Wouldst thou behold things mortal or immortal?

Cain. Why, what are things?

Lucifer. Both partly: but what doth
Sit next thy heart?

Cain. The things I see.

Lucifer. But what

Satan nearest it ?

Cain. The things I have not seen,
Nor ever shall—the mysteries of death.

Lucifer. What, if I show to thee things which have died,
As I have shown thee much which cannot die ?

Cain. Do so.

Lucifer. Away, then ! on our mighty wings.

Cain. Oh, how we cleave the blue ! The stars fade from us !

The earth ? Where is my earth ? let me look on it,
For I was made of it.

Lucifer. 'Tis now beyond thee,
Less, in the universe, than thou in it ;
Yet deem not that thou canst escape it ; thou
Shalt soon return to earth, and all its dust ;
'Tis part of thy eternity, and mine.

Cain. Where dost thou lead me ?

Lucifer. To what was before thee !
The phantasm of the world ; of which thy world
Is but the wreck.

Cain. What ! is it not then new ?

Lucifer. No more than life is ; and that was ere thou
Or I were, or the things which seem to us
Greater than either ; many things will have
No end ; and some, which would pretend to have Had no beginning, have had one as mean
As thou ; and mightier things have been extinct
To make way for much meaner than we can Surmise ; for moments only and the space
Have been and must be all unchangeable.
But changes make not death, except to clay ;
But thou art clay—and canst but comprehend
That which was clay, and such thou shalt behold.

Cain. Clay, spirit ! What thou wilt, I can survey.

Lucifer. Away, then !

Cain. But the lights fade from me fast,
And some till now grew larger as we approach'd,
And wore the look of worlds.

Lucifer. And such they are.

Cain. And Edens in them ?

Lucifer. It may be.

Cain. And men ?

Lucifer. Yea, or things higher.

Cain. Ay ? and serpents too ?

Lucifer. Wouldst thou have men without them ? must no reptiles

Breathe, save the erect ones ?

Cain. How the lights recede !
Where fly we ?

Lucifer. To the world of phantoms, which
Are beings past, and shadows still to come.

Cain. But it grows dark, and dark—the stars are gone !

Lucifer. And yet thou seest.

Cain. 'Tis a fearful light !

No sun, no moon, no lights innumerable.
The very blue of the empurpled night
Fades to a dreary twilight, yet I see
Huge dusky masses ; but unlike the worlds
We were approaching, which, begirt with light,
Seem'd full of life even when their atmosphere
Of light gave way, and show'd them taking shapes
Unequal, of deep valleys and vast mountains ;
And some emitting sparks, and some displaying Enormous liquid plains, and some begirt
With luminous belts, and floating moons, which took Like them the features of fair earth ;—instead,
All here seems dark and dreadful.

Lucifer. But distinct.

Thou seekest to behold death, and dead things ?

Cain. I seek it not ; but as I know there are

Such, and that my sire's sin makes him and me,
 And all that we inherit, liable
 To such, I would behold at once, what I
 Must one day see perforce.

Lucifer. Behold!

Cain. 'Tis darkness.

Lucifer. And so it shall be ever; but we will Unfold its gates!

Cain. Enormous vapours roll
 Apart—what's this?

Lucifer. Enter!

Cain. Can I return?

Lucifer. Return! be sure: how else should death be peopled?

Its present realm is thin to what it will be,
 Through thee and thine.

Cain. The clouds still open wide
 And wider, and make widening circles round us.

Lucifer. Advance!

Cain. And thou!

Lucifer. Fear not—without me thou
 Could'st not have gone beyond thy world. On! on!
[They disappear through the clouds.]

SCENE II.—Hades.

Enter LUCIFER and CAIN.

Cain. How silent and how vast are these dim worlds
 For they seem more than one, and yet more peopled
 Than the huge brilliant luminous orbs which swung
 So thickly in the upper air, that I
 Had deem'd them rather the bright populace
 Of some old imaginable Heaven
 Than things to be inhabited themselves,
 But that on drawing near them I beheld
 Their swelling into palpable immensity
 Of matter, which seem'd made for life to dwell on,
 Rather than life itself. But here, all is

So shadowy and so full of twilight, that
It speaks of a day past.

Lucifer. It is the realm
Of death.—Would'st have it present?

Cain. 'Till I know
That which it really is, I cannot answer.
But if it be as I have heard my father
Deal out in his long homilies, 'tis a thing—
Oh God! I dare not think on't! Cursed be
He who invented life that leads to death!
Or the dull mass of life, that being life—
Could not retain, but needs must forfeit it—
Even for the innocent!

Lucifer. Dost thou curse thy father?

Cain. Cursed he not me in giving me my birth?
Cursed he not me before my birth, in daring
To pluck the fruit forbidden?

Lucifer. Thou say'st well:
The curse is mutual 'twixt thy sire and thee—
But for thy sons and brother?

Cain. Let them share it
With me, their sire and brother! What else is Bequeath'd to me? I leave them my inheritance.
Oh ye interminable gloomy realms
Of swimming shadows and enormous shapes,
Some fully shown, some indistinct, and all
Mighty and melancholy—what are ye?
Live ye, or have ye lived?

Lucifer. Somewhat of both.

Cain. Then what is death?

Lucifer. What? Hath not he who made ye
Said 'tis another life?

Cain. 'Till now he hath
Said nothing, save that all shall die.

Lucifer. Perhaps
He one day will unfold that further secret.

Cain. Happy the day!

Lucifer. Yes; happy! when unfolded

Through agonies unspeakable, and clogg'd
 With agonies eternal, to innumerable
 Yet unborn myriads of unconscious atoms,
 All to be animated for this only.

Cain. What are these mighty phantoms which I see
 Floating around me?—they wear not the form
 Of the intelligencies I have seen
 Round our regretted and unenter'd Eden,
 Nor wear the form of man as I have view'd it
 In Adam's, and in Abel's, and in mine,
 Nor in my sister-bride's, nor in my children's :
 And yet they have an aspect, which, though not
 Of men nor angels, looks like something, which
 If not the last, rose higher than the first,
 Haughty, and high, and beautiful, and full
 Of seeming strength, but of inexplicable
 Shape: for I ne'er saw such. They bear not
 The wing of seraph, nor the face of man,
 Nor form of mightiest brute, nor aught that is Now breathing! mighty yet and beautiful
 As the most beautiful and mighty which Live, and yet so unlike them, that I scarce
 Can call them living.

Lucifer. Yet they lived.

Cain. Where?

Lucifer. Where

Thou livest.

Cain. When?

Lucifer. On what thou callest earth
 They did inhabit.

Cain. Adam is the first.

Lucifer. Of thine, I grant thee—but too mean to be
 The last of these.

Cain. And what are they?

Lucifer. That which

Thou shalt be.

Cain. But what were they?

Lucifer. Living, high
Intelligent, good, great, and glorious things,
As much superior unto all thy sire,
Adam, could e'er have been in Eden, as
The sixty-thousandth generation shall be,
In its dull damp degeneracy, to Thee and thy son ;—and how weak they are, judge
By thy own flesh.

Cain. Ah me! and did they perish?

Lucifer. Yes, from their earth, as thou wilt fade from thine.

Cain. But was mine theirs?

Lucifer. It was.

Cain. But not as now.

It is too little and too lowly to Sustain such creatures.

Lucifer. True, it was more glorious.

Cain. And wherefore did it fall?

Lucifer. Ask him who fells.

Cain. But how?

Lucifer. By a most crushing and inexorable
Destruction and disorder of the elements,
Which struck a world to chaos, as a chaos
Subsiding has struck out a world: such things,
Though rare in time, are frequent in eternity.—
Pass on, and gaze upon the past.

Cain. 'Tis awful!

Lucifer. And true. Behold these phantoms! they were once

Material as thou art.

Cain. And must I be
Like them?

Lucifer. Let he who made thee answer that,
I show thee what thy predecessors are,
And what they were thou feelest, in degree
Inferior as thy petty feelings and Thy pettier portion of the immortal part
Of high intelligence and earthly strength.

nebular masses perish

What ye in common have with what they had
 Is life, and what ye shall have—death ; the rest
 Of your poor attributes is such as suits
 Reptiles engender'd out of the subsiding
 Slime of mighty universe, crush'd into
 A scarcely yet shaped planet, peopled with Things whose enjoyments was to be in blindness—
 A Paradise of Ignorance, from which Knowledge was barr'd as poison. But behold
 What these superior beings are or were ;
 Or, if it irk thee, turn thee back and till
 The earth, thy task—I'll waft thee there in safety.

Cain. No: I'll stay here.

Lucifer. How long ?

Cain. For ever ! Since

I must one day return here from the earth,
 I rather would remain ; I am sick of all
 That dust has shown me—let me dwell in shadows.

Lucifer. It cannot be . thou now beholdest as
 A vision that which is reality.
 'To make thyself fit for this dwelling, thou Must pass through what the things thou see'st have pass'd—

The gates of death.

Cain. By what gate have we enter'd
 Even now ?

Lucifer. By mine ! But, plighted to return,
 My spirit buoys thee up to breathe in regions
 Where all is breathless save thyself. Gaze on ;
 But do not think to dwell here till thine hour
 Is come.

Cain. And these, too ; can they neer repass
 To earth again ?

Lucifer. Their earth is gone for ever—
 So changed by its convulsion, they would not
 Be conscious to a single present spot
 Of its new scarcely harden'd surface—'twas—
 Oh, what a beautiful world it was !

Cain. And is.

It is not with the earth, though I must till it,
I feel at war, but that I may not profit
By what it bears of beautiful untóiling,
Nor gratify my thousand swelling thoughts
With knowledge, nor allay my thousand fears
Of death and life.

Lucifer. What thy world is, thou see'st,
But canst not comprehend the shadow of
That which it was.

Cain. And those enormous creatures.
Phantoms inferior in intelligence
(At least so seeming) to the things we have pass'd,
Resembling somewhat the wild inhabitants
Of the deep woods of earth, the hugest which Roar nightly in the forest, but ten-fold
In magnitude and terror; taller than
The cherub-guarded walls of Eden, with Eyes flashing like the fiery swords which fence them,
And tusks projecting like the trees stripp'd of Their bark and branches—what were they?

Lucifer. That which
The Mammoth is in thy world; but these lie
By myriads underneath its surface.

Cain. But
None on it?

Lucifer. No: for thy frail race to war
With them would render the curse on it useless—
'Twould be destroy'd so early.

Cain. But why war?

Lucifer. You have forgotten the denunciation
Which drove your race from Eden—war with all things,
And death to all things, and disease to most things,
And pangs, and bitterness! these were the fruits
Of the forbidden tree.

Cain. But animals—
Did they too eat of it, that they must die?

Lucifer. Your Maker told ye, they were made for you,

CAIN.

As you for him.—You would not have their doom
Superior to your own? Had Adam not Fallen, all had stood.

Cain. Alas! the hopeless wretches!
They too must share my sire's fate, like his sons;
Like them, too, without having shared the apple;
Like them, too, without the so-dear bought knowledge!
It was a lying tree—for we know nothing.
At least it promised knowledge at the price
Of death—but knowledge still: but what knows man?

Lucifer. It may be death leads to the highest know- ledge,
And being of all things the sole thing certain,
At least leads to the surest science: therefore
The tree was true, though deadly.

Cain. These dim realms!
I see them, but I know them not.

Lucifer. Because
Thy hour is yet afar, and matter cannot Comprehend spirit wholly—but 'tis something
To know there are such realms.

Cain. We knew already
That there was death.

Lucifer. But not what was beyond it.

Cain. Nor know I now.

Lucifer. Thou know'st that there is
A state, and many states beyond thine own—
And this thou knewest not this morn.

Cain. But all
Seems dim and shadowy.

Lucifer. Be content; it will Seem clearer to thine immortality.

Cain. And yon immeasurable liquid space
Of glorious azure which floats on beyond us,
Which looks like water, and which I should deem
The river which flows out of Paradise
Past my own dwelling, but that it is bankless
And boundless, and of an ethereal hue—

CAIN.

What is it?

Lucifer. There is still some such on earth,
Although inferior, and thy children shall
Dwell near it—'tis the phantasm of an ocean.

Cain. 'Tis like another world; a liquid sun—
And those inordinate creatures sporting o'er
Its shining surface?

Lucifer. Are its inhabitants,
The past leviathans.

Cain. And yon immense
Serpent, which rears his dripping mane and vasty
Head ten times higher than the haughtiest cedar Forth from the abyss, looking as he could coil
Himself around the orbs we lately look'd on—
Is he not of the kind which bask'd beneath
The tree in Eden?

Lucifer. Eve, thy mother, best
Can tell what shape of serpent tempted her.

Cain. This seems too terrible. No doubt the other
Had more of beauty.

Lucifer. Hast thou ne'er beheld him?

Cain. Many of the same kind (at least so call'd)
But never that precisely which persuaded
The fatal fruit, nor even of the same aspect.

Lucifer. Your father saw him not?

Cain. No: 'twas my mother
Who tempted him—she tempted by the serpent.

Lucifer. Good man! whenever thy wife, or thy son's wives

Tempt thee or them to aught that's new or strange,
Be sure thou see'st first who hath tempted them.

Cain. Thy precept comes too late: there is no more
For serpents to tempt woman to.

Lucifer. But there
Are some things still which woman may tempt man to,
And man tempt woman:—let thy sons look to it!
My counsel is a kind one; for 'tis even Given chiefly at my own expense: 'tis true,

'Twill not be follow'd, so there's little lost.

Cain. I understand not this.

Lucifer. The happier thou;—

Thy world and thou are still too young! Thou thinkest

Thyself most wicked and unhappy : is it
Not so?

Cain. For crime, I know; but for pain,
I have felt much.

Lucifer. First-born of the first man!
Thy present state of sin—and thou are evil,
Of sorrow—and thou sufferest, are both Eden
In all its innocence compared to what
Thou shortly may'st be; and that state again,
In its redoubled wretchedness, a Paradise
To what thy son's son's sons, accumulating
In generations like to dust, (which they
In fact but add to,) shall endure and do.—
Now let us back to earth!

Cain. And wherefore didst thou
Lead me here only to inform me this?

Lucifer. Was not thy quest for knowledge?

Cain. Yes: as being
The road to happiness.

Lucifer. If truth be so,
Thou hast it.

Cain. Then my father's God did well
When he prohibited the fatal tree.

Lucifer. But had done better in not planting it.
But ignorance of evil doth not save
From evil! it must still roll on the same,
A part of all things.

Cain. Not of all things. No:
I'll not believe it—for I thirst for good:

Lucifer. And who and what doth not? Who covets evil
For its own bitter sake?—None—nothing! 'tis
The leaven of all life, and lifelessness.

Cain. Within those glorious orbs which we behold,
Distant and dazzling, and innumerable,
Ere we came down into this phantom realm,
Ill cannot come; they are too beautiful.

Lucifer. Thou has seen them from afar.

Cain. And what of that?
Distance can but diminish glory—they
When nearer must be more ineffable.

Lucifer. Approach the things of earth most beautiful,
And judge their beauty near.

Cain. I have done this—
The loveliest thing I know is loveliest nearest.

Lucifer. Then there must be delusion—What is that,
Which being nearest to thine eyes is still
More beautiful than beauteous things remote?

Cain. My sister Adah.—All the stars of heaven,
The deep blue noon of night, lit by an orb
Which looks a spirit, or a spirit's world—
The hues of twilight—the sun's gorgeous coming—
His setting indescribable, which fills
My eyes with pleasant tears as I behold
Him sink, and feel my heart float softly with him
Along that western paradise of clouds—
The forest shade—the green bough—the bird's voice—
The vesper bird's, which seems to sing of love,
And mingles with the song of cherubim,
As the day closes over Eden's walls;
All these are nothing, to my eyes and heart,
Like Adah's face: I turn from earth to heaven
To gaze on it.

Lucifer. 'Tis frail as fair mortality,
In the first dawn and bloom of young creation
And earliest embraces of earth's parents,
Can make its offspring; still it is delusion.

Cain. You think so, being not her brother.

Lucifer. Mortal!

My brotherhood's with those who have no children.

Cain. Then thou canst have no fellowship with us.

Lucifer. It may be that thine own shall be for me.

But if thou dost possess a beautiful
Being beyond all beauty in thine eyes,
Why art thou wretched?

Cain. Why do I exist?

Why art thou wretched? why are all things so?
E'en he who made us must be, as the Maker
Of things, unhappy! To produce destruction
Can surely never be the task of joy,
And yet my sire says he's omnipotent:
Then why is evil—he being good? I ask'd
This question of my father; and he said,
Because this evil only was the path
To good. Strange good, that must rise from out
Its deadly opposite. I lately saw
A lamb stung by a reptile: the poor suckling
Lay foaming on the earth, beneath the vain
And piteous bleating of its restless dam;
My father pluck'd some herbs, and laid them to
The wound; and by degrees the helpless wretch
Resum'd its careless life, and rose to drain
The mother's milk, who o'er it tremulous
Stood licking its reviving limbs with joy.
Behold, my son! said Adam, how from evil
Springs good!

Lucifer. What didst thou answer?

Cain. Nothing; for

He is my father: but I thought, that 'twere
A better portion for the animal
Never to have been stung at all, than to Purchase renewal of its little life
With agonies unutterable, though
Dispell'd by antidotes.

Lucifer. But as thou saidst
Of all beloved things thou lovest her
Who shar'd thy mother's milk, and giveth her's

Unto thy children——

Cain. Most assuredly :

What should I be without her ?

Lucifer. What am I ?

Cain. Dost thou love nothing ?

Lucifer. What does thy God love ?

Cain. All things, my father says ; but I confess
I see it not in their allotment here.

Lucifer. And, therefore, thou canst not see if I love
Or no, except some vast and general purpose,
To which particular things must melt like snows.

Cain. Snows ! what are they ?

Lucifer. Be happier in not knowing
What thy remoter offspring must encounter ;
But bask beneath the clime which knows no winter !

Cain. But dost thou not love something like thyself ?

Lucifer. And dost thou love thyself ?

Cain. Yes, but love more
What makes my feelings more endurable,
And is more than myself, because I love it.

Lucifer. Thou lovest it, because 'tis beautiful
As was the apple in thy mother's eye ;
And when it ceases to be so, thy love
Will cease, like any other appetite.

Cain. Cease to be beautiful ! how can that be ?

Lucifer. With time.

Cain. But time has past, and hitherto
Even Adam and my mother both are fair :
Not fair like Adah and the seraphim—
But very fair.

Lucifer. All that must pass away
In them and her.

Cain. I'm sorry for it ; but Cannot conceive my love for her the less.
And when her beauty disappears, methinks
He who creates all beauty will lose more
Than me in seeing perish such a work.

Lucifer. I pity thee who lovest what must perish.

Cain. And I thee who lov'st nothing.

Lucifer. And thy brother—
Sits he not near thy heart?

Cain. Why should he not?

Lucifer. Thy father loves him well—so does thy God.

Cain. and so do I.

Lucifer. 'Tis well and meekly done.

Cain. Meekly!

Lucifer. He is the second born of flesh,
And is his mother's favourite.

Cain. Let him keep
Her favour, since the serpent was the first
To win it.

Lucifer. And his father's?

Cain. What is that
To me? should I not love that which all love?

Lucifer. And the Jehovah—the indulgent Lord,
And bounteous planter of barr'd Paradise—
He, too, looks smilingly on Abel.

Cain. I.
Ne'er saw him, and I know not if he smiles.

Lucifer. But you have seen his angels.

Cain. Rarely.

Lucifer. But Sufficiently to see they love your brother:
His sacrifices are acceptable.

Cain. So be they! wherefore speak to me of this?

Lucifer. Because thou hast thought of this ere now.

Cain. And if

I have thought, why recall a thought that—(he pauses as agitated)—Spirit!

Here we are in thy world; speak not of mine.

Thou hast shown me wonders; thou hast shown me those

Mighty Pre-Adamites who walk'd the earth
Of which ours is the wreck; thou hast pointed out
Myriads of starry worlds, of which our own

Is the dim and remote companion, in Infinity of life: thou hast shown me shadows
Of that existence with the dreaded name
Which my sire brought us—Death; thou hast shown me much—

But not all: show me where Jehovah dwells,
In his especial Paradise—or thine:
Where is it?

Lucifer. Here, and o'er all space.

Cain. But ye

Have some allotted dwelling—as all things;
Clay has its earth, and other worlds their tenants;
All temporary breathing creatures their Peculiar element; and things which have Long ceased to breathe our breath, have theirs; thou say'st;

And the Jehovah and thyself have thine—
Ye do not dwell together?

Lucifer. No, we reign

Together, but our dwellings are asunder.

Cain. Would there were only one of ye! perchance
An unity of purpose might make union
In elements which seem now jarr'd in storms.
How came ye, being spirits, wise and infinite,
To separate? Are ye not as brethren in
Your essence, and your nature, and your glory?

Lucifer. Art thou not Abel's brother?

Cain. We are brethren,

And so we shall remain; but were it not so,
In spirit like to flesh? can it fall out?
Infinity with Immortality?
Jarring and turning space to misery—
For what?

Lucifer. To reign.

Cain. Did ye not tell me that
Ye are both eternal?

Lucifer. Yea!

Cain. And what I have seen,
Yon blue immensity, is boundless?

Lucifer. Ay.

Cain. And cannot ye both reign then?—is there not Enough?—why should ye differ?

Lucifer. We both reign.

Cain. But one of you makes evil.

Lucifer. Which?

Cain. Thou! for

If thou canst do man good, why dost thou not?

Lucifer. And why not he who made? I made ye not;

Ye are his creatures, and not mine.

Cain. Then leave us

His creatures, as thou say'st we are, or show me Thy dwelling, or his dwelling.

Lucifer. I could show thee

Both; but the time will come when thou shalt see one Of them for evermore.

Cain. And why not now?

Lucifer. Thy human mind hath scarcely grasp to gather

The little I have shown thee into calm

And clear thought; and thou wouldst go on aspiring

To the great double Mysteries! the two Principles!

And gaze upon them on their secret thrones!

Dust! limit thy ambition; for to see

Either of these, would be for thee to perish!

Cain. And let me perish, so I see them!

Lucifer. There

The son of her who snatch'd the apple spake!

But thou wouldst only perish, and not see them;

That sight is for the other state.

Cain. Of death?

Lucifer. That is the prelude.

Cain. Then I dread it less,

Now that I know it leads to something definite.

Lucifer. And now I will convey thee to thy world,
Where thou shalt multiply the race of Adam,
Eat, drink, toil, tremble, laugh, weep, sleep, and die.

Cain. And to what end have I beheld these things
Which thou hast shown me?

Lucifer. Didst thou not require
Knowledge? And have I not, in what I show'd,
Taught thee to know thyself?

Cain. Alas! I seem Nothing.

Lucifer. And this should be the human sum
Of knowledge, to know mortal nature's nothingness?
Bequeath that science to thy children, and
'Twill spare them many tortures.

Cain. Haughty spirit!
Thou speak'st it proudly; but thyself, though proud,
Hast a superior.

Lucifer. No! By heaven, which He Holds, and the abyss, and the immensity
Of worlds and life, which I hold with him—No!
I have a victor—true; but no superior.
Homage he has from all—but none from me:
I battle it against him, as I battled
In highest heaven. Through all eternity,
And the unfathomable gulfs of Hades,
And the interminable realms of space,
And the infinity of endless ages,
All, all, will I dispute! And world by world,
And star by star, and universe by universe
Shall tremble in the balance, till the great
Conflict shall cease, if ever it shall cease,
Which it ne'er shall, till he or I be quench'd!
And what can quench our immortality,
Or mutual and irrevocable hate?
He as a conqueror will call the conquer'd
Evil; but what will be the good he gives?
Were I the victor, his works would be deem'd
The only evil ones. And you, ye new
And scarce-born mortals, what have been his gifts
To you already in your little world?

Cain. But few; and some of those but bitter.

Lucifer.

Back

With me, then, to thine earth, and try the rest
Of his celestial boons to ye and yours.

Evil and good are things in their own essence,
And not made good or evil by the giver;

But if he gives good—so call him; if

Evil springs from him, do not name it mine,

Till ye know better its true fount; and judge

Not by words, though of spirits, but the fruits

Of your existence, such as it may be.

One good gift has the fatal apple given—

Your reason:—let it not be overstay'd

By tyrannous threats to force you into faith

'Gainst all external sense and inward feeling:

Think and endure—and form an inner world

In your own bosom—where the outward fails;

So shall you nearer be the spiritual

Nature, and war triumphant with your own.

[They disappear.]

Chorus

M. S. B. 100

A C T III.

SCENE I.—The Earth near Eden, as in Act I.Enter CAIN and ADAH.Adah. Hush ! tread softly, Cain.Cain. I will ; but wherefore !Adah. Our little Enoch sleeps upon yon bed
Of leaves, beneath the cypress.Cain. Cypress ! 'tis
A gloomy tree, which looks as if it mourn'd
O'er what it shadows ; wherefore didst thou choose it
For our child's canopy ?Adah. Because its branches
Shut out the sun like night, and therefore seem'd
Fitting to shadow slumber.Cain. Ay, the last—
And longest : but no matter—lead me to him.*[They go up to the child.]*How lovely he appears ! his little cheeks,
In their pure incarnation, vying with
The rose leaves strewn beneath them.Adah. And his lips, too,
How beautifully parted ! No ; you shall not
Kiss him, at least not now : he will wake soon—
His hour of mid-day rest is nearly over ;
But it were pity to disturb him till
'Tis closed.Cain. You have said well ; I will contain
My heart till then. He smiles, and sleeps !—sleep on
And smile, thou little, young inheritor
Of a world scarce less young : sleep on, and smile !
Thine are the hours and days when both are cheering
And innocent ! thou hast not pluck'd the fruit—
Thou know'st not thou art naked ! Must the time
Come thou shalt be amerced for sins unknown,

Which were not thine nor mine? But now sleep on!
 His cheeks are reddening into deeper smiles,
 And shining lids are trembling o'er his long
 Lashes, dark as the cypress which waves o'er them;
 Half open, from beneath them the clear blue
 Laughs out, although in slumber. He must dream—
 Of what? Of Paradise!—Ay! dream of it,
 My disinherited boy! 'Tis but a dream;
 For never more thyself, thy sons, nor fathers,
 Shall walk in that forbidden place of joy!

Adah. Dear Cain! Nay, do not whisper o'er our son
 Such melancholy yearnings o'er the past:
 Why wilt thou always mourn for Paradise?
 Can we not make another?

Cain. Where?

Adah. Here, or
 Where'er thou wilt: where'er thou art, I feel not
 The want of this so much regretted Eden.
 Have I not thee, our boy, our sire, and brother,
 And Zillah—our sweet sister, and our Eve,
 To whom we owe so much besides our birth?

Cain. Yes—death, too, is amongst the debts we owe her.

Adah. Cain! that proud spirit, who withdrew thee
 hence

Hath sadden'd thine still deeper. I had hoped
 The promised wonders which thou hast beheld,
 Visions, thou say'st, of past and present worlds,
 Would have composed thy mind into the calm
 Of a contented knowledge; but I see
 Thy guide hath done thee evil: still I thank him,
 And can forgive him all, that he so soon
 Hath given thee back to us.

Cain. So soon?

Adah. 'Tis scarcely
 Two hours since ye departed: two long hours
 To me, but only hours upon the sun.

Cain. And yet I have approach'd that sun, and seen

Worlds which he once shone on, and never more
Shall light; and worlds he never lit: methought
Years had roll'd o'er my absence.

Adah. Hardly hours.

Cain. The mind, then, hath capacity of time,
And measures it by that which it beholds,
Pleasing or painful; little or almighty.
I had beheld the immemorial works
Of endless beings; skirr'd extinguish'd worlds;
And, gazing on eternity, methought
I had borrow'd more by a few drops of ages
From its immensity; but now I feel
My littleness again. Well said the spirit,
That I was nothing!

Adah. Wherefore said he so?
Jehovah said not that.

Cain. No: he contents him
With making us the nothing which we are;
And after flattering dust with glimpses of Eden and Immortality, resolves
It back to dust again—for what?

Adah. Thou know'st—
Even for our parent's error.

Cain. What is that
To us? they sinn'd, then let them die!

Adah. Thou hast not spoken well, nor is that thought
Thy own, but of the spirit who was with thee.
Would I could die for them, so they might live!

Cain. Why, so say I—provided that one victim
Might satiate the insatiable of life,
And that our little rosy sleeper there
Might never taste of death nor human sorrow,
Nor hand it down to those who spring from him.

Adah. How know we that some such atonement one day
May not redeem our race?

Cain. By sacrificing
The harmless for the guilty? what atonement

Were there? why, we are innocent: what have we Done, that we must be victims for a deed
 Before our birth, or need have victims to Atone for this mysterious, nameless sin—
 If it be such a sin to seek for knowledge?

Adah. Alas! thou sinnest now, my Cain; thy words
 Sound impious in mine ears.

Cain. Then leave me!

Adah. Never,
 Though thy God left thee.

Cain. Say, what have we here?

Adah. Two altars, which our Abel made
 During thine absence, whereupon to offer
 A sacrifice to God on thy return.

Cain. And how knew he, that I would be so ready
 With the burnt offerings, which he daily brings
 With a meek brow, whose base humility
 Shows more of fear than worship, as a bribe
 To the Creator.

Adah. Surely 'tis well done.

Cain. One altar may suffice; I have no offering.

Adah. The fruits of the earth, the early, beautiful
 Blossom and bud, and bloom of flowers, and fruits;
 These are a goodly offering to the Lord,
 Given with a gentle and a contrite spirit.

Cain. I have toil'd, and till'd, and sweaten in the sun
 According to the curse:—must I do more?
 For what should I be gentle? for a war
 With all the elements ere they will yield
 The bread we eat? For what must I be grateful?
 For being dust, and grovelling in the dust,
 Till I return to dust? If I am nothing—
 For nothing shall I be an hypocrite,
 And seem well pleas'd with pain? For what should I
 Be contrite? for my father's sin, already Expiate with what we all have undergone,
 And to be more than expiated by.
 The ages prophesied, upon our seed.

Little deems our young blooming sleeper, there,
 The germs of an eternal misery
 To myriads is within him ! better 'twere
 I snatch'd him in his sleep, and dash'd him 'gainst
 The rocks, than let him live to—

Adah. Oh, my God !

Touch not the child—my child ! thy child ! Oh Cain !

Cain. Fear not ! for all the stars, and all the power
 Which sways them, I would not accost yon infant
 With ruder greeting than a father's kiss.

Adah. Then, why so awful in thy speech ?

Cain. I said,

'Twere better that he ceas'd to live, than give Life to so much of sorrow as he must Endure, and, harder still, bequeath ; but since
 That saying jars, let us only say—

'Twere better that he never had been born.

Adah. Oh, do not say so ! Where were then the joys,
 The mother's joys of watching, nourishing,
 And loving him ? Soft ! he awakes. Sweet Enoch !

[She goes to the child.]

Oh Cain ! look on him : see how full of life,
 Of strength, of bloom, of beauty, and of joy ;
 How like to me—how like to thee, when gentle,
 For then we are all alike ; is't not so, Cain ?
 Mother, and sire, and son, our features are Reflected in each other ; as they are
 In the clear waters, when they are gentle, and
 When thou art gentle. Love us, then, my Cain !
 And love thyself for our sakes, for we love thee.
 Look ! how he laughs and stretches out his arms,
 And opens wide his blue eyes upon thine,
 To hail his father : while his little form
 Flutters as wing'd with joy. Talk not of pain !
 The childless cherubs well might envy thee
 The pleasures of a parent ! Bless him, Cain !
 As yet he hath no words to thank thee, but
 His heart will, and thine own too.

Cain. Bless thee, boy!
If that a mortal blessing may avail thee,
To save thee from the serpent's curse!

Adah. It shall.
Surely a father's blessing may avert
A reptile's subtlety.

Cain. Of that I doubt;
But bless him ne'er the less.

Adah. Our brother comes.

Cain. Thy brother Abel.

Enter ABEL.

Abel. Welcome, Cain! My brother,
The peace of God be on thee!

Cain. Abel, hail!

Abel. Our sister tells me that thou hast been wandering,
In high communion with a spirit, far Beyond our wonted range. Was he of those
We have seen and spoken with, like to our father?

Cain. No.

Abel. Why then commune with him? he may be
A foe to the Most High.

Cain. And friend to man.
Has the Most High been so—if so you term him?

Abel. Term him! your words are strange to-day, my brother.

My sister Adah, leave us for a while—
We mean to sacrifice.

Adah. Farewell, my Cain;
But first embrace thy son. May his soft spirit,
And Abel's pious ministry, recall thee
To peace and holiness!

[Exit ADAM, with her child.]

Abel. Where hast thou been?

Cain. I know not.

Abel. Nor what thou hast seen?

Cain. The dead,
The immortal, the unbounded, the omnipotent,

The overpowering mysteries of space—
 The innumerable worlds that were and are—
 A whirlwind of such overwhelming things,
 Suns, moons, and earths, upon their loud-voic'd spheres
 Singing in thunder round me, as have made me
 Unfit for mortal converse : leave me, Abel.

Abel. Thine eyes are flashing with unnatural light—
 Thy cheek is flush'd with an unnatural hue—
 Thy words are fraught with an unnatural sound—
 What may this mean?

Cain. It means—I pray thee, leave me.

Abel. Not till we have pray'd and sacrific'd together.

Cain. Abel, I pray thee, sacrifice alone—
 Jehovah loves thee well.

Abel. Both well, I hope.

Cain. But thee the better: I care not for that;
 Thou art fitter for his worship than I am :
 Revere him, then—but let it be alone—
 At least without me.

Abel. Brother, I should ill
 Deserve the name of our great father's son,
 If as my elder I rever'd thee not,
 And in the worship of our God call'd not
 On thee to join me, and precede me in
 Our priesthood—'tis thy place.

Cain. But I have ne'er
 Asserted it.

Abel. The more my grief; I pray thee
 To do so now: thy soul seems labouring in
 Some strong delusion; it will calm thee.

Cain. No;
 Nothing can calm me more. Calm! say I? Never Knew I what calm was in the soul, although
 I have seen the elements still'd. My Abel, leave me!
 Or let me leave thee to thy pious purpose.

Abel. Neither; we must perform our task together.
 Spurn me not.

Cain. If it must be so—well, then,
 What shall I do?

(rising action)

Abel. Choose one of those two altars.

Cain. Choose for me: they to me are so much turf
And stone.

Abel. Choose thou!

Cain. I have chosen.

Abel. 'Tis the highest,
And suits thee, as the elder. Now prepare Thine offerings.

Cain. Where are thine?

Abel. Behold them here—
The firstlings of the flock, and fat thereof
A shepherd's humble offering.

Cain. I have no flocks;
I am a tiller of the ground, and must Yield what it yieldeth to my toil—its fruit:

[He gathers fruits.]

Behold them in their various bloom and ripeness.

[They dress their altars, and kindle a flame upon them.]

Abel. My brother, as the elder, offer first
Thy prayer and thanksgiving with sacrifice.

Cain. No—I am new to this; lead thou the way,
And I will follow—as I may.

Abel, (kneeling.) Oh God!
Who made us, and who breath'd the breath of life
Within our nostrils, who hath blessed us,
And spared, despite our father's sin, to make
His children all lost, as they might have been,
Had not thy justice been so temper'd with
The mercy which is thy delight, as to Accord a pardon like a Paradise,
Compared with our great crimes: Sole Lord of light!
Of good, and glory, and eternity;
Without whom all were evil, and with whom
Nothing can err, except to some good end
Of thine omnipotent benevolence—
Inscrutable, but still to be fulfill'd—
Accept from out thy humble first of shepherd's

other side of argst

First of the first-born flocks—an offering,
In itself nothing—as what offering can be Aught unto thee?—but yet accept it for
The thanksgiving of him who spreads it in
The face of thy high heaven, bowing his own
Even to the dust, of which he is, in honour
Of thee, and of thy name, for evermore!

Cain, (standing erect during this speech) Spirit!
whate'er or whosoe'er thou art,
Omnipotent, it may be—and, if good,
Shown in the exemption of thy deeds from evil;
Jehovah upon earth! and God in heaven!
And it may be with other names, because Thine attributes seem many, as thy works:—
If thou must be propitiated with prayers,
Take them! If thou must be induced with altars,
And soften'd with a sacrifice, receive them!
Two beings here erect them unto thee.
If thou lov'st blood, the shepherd's shrine, which smokes

On my right hand, hath shed it for thy service
In the first of his flock, whose limbs now reek
In sanguinary incense to thy skies;
Or if the sweet and blooming fruits of earth,
And milder seasons, which the unstain'd turf
I spread them on now offers in the face
Of the broad sun which ripen'd them, may seem Good to thee, inasmuch as they have not Suffer'd in limbs or life, and rather from
A sample of thy works, than supplication
To look on ours! If a shrine without victim,
And altar without gore, may win thy favour,
Look on it! and for him who dresseth it,
He is—such as thou mad'st him; and seeks nothing
Which must be won by kneeling: if he's evil,
Strike him! thou art omnipotent, and may'st,—
For what can he oppose? If he be good,
Strike him, or spare him, as thou wilt! since all

Rests upon thee; and good and evil seem
 To have no power themselves, save in thy will;
 And whether that be good or ill I know not,
 Not being omnipotent, nor fit to judge
 Omnipotence, but merely to endure
 Its mandate; which thus far I have endured.

(The fire upon the altar of Abel kindles into a column of the brightest flame, and ascends to heaven; while a whirlwind throws down the altar of Cain, and scatters the fruits abroad upon the earth.)

Abel, (kneeling.) Oh, brother, pray! Jehovah's wrath with thee!

Cain. Why so?

Abel. Thy fruits are scatter'd on the earth.

Cain. From earth they came, to earth let them return;
 Their seed will bear fresh fruit there ere the summer:
 Thy burnt flesh-off'ring prospers better; see
 How heav'n licks up the flames, when thick with blood!

Abel. Think not upon my off'ring's acceptance,
 But make another of thine own before
 It is too late.

Cain. I will build no more altars,
 Nor suffer any.—

Abel, (rising). Cain! what meanest thou?

Cain. To cast down you vile flatt'rer of the clouds,
 The smoky harbinger of thy dull pray'r—
 Thine altar, with its blood of lambs and kids,
 Which fed on milk, to be destroy'd in blood.

Abel, (opposing him). Thou shalt not:—add not impious works to impious
 Words! let that altar stand—'tis hallow'd now
 By the immortal pleasure of Jehovah,
 In his acceptance of the victims.

Cain. His.

His pleasure! what was his high pleasure in
 The fumes of scorching flesh and smoking blood,
 To the pain of the bleating mothers, which Still yearn for their dead offspring? or the pangs

Of the sad ignorant victims underneath
Thy pious knife? Give way! this bloody record
Shall not stand in the sun, to shame creation!

Abel. Brother, give back! thou shalt not touch my altar

With violence; if that thou wilt adopt it,
To try another sacrifice, 'tis thine.

Cain. Another sacrifice! Give way, or else
That sacrifice may be——

Abel. What meanest thou?

Cain. Give—

Give way!—thy God loves blood!—then look to it:
Give way, ere he hath more!

Abel. In his great name,
I stand between thee and the shrine which hath
Had his acceptance.

Cain. If thou lov'st thyself,
Stand back till I have strew'd this turf along
Its native soil:—else——

Abel, (opposing him). I love God far more Than life.

Cain, (striking him with a brand on the temples, which he snatches from the altar.)

Then take thy life unto thy God,
Since he loves lives.

Abel (falls.) What hast thou done, my brother?

Cain. Brother!

Abel. Oh, God! receive thy servant, and Forgive his slayer, for he knew not what
He did.—Cain, give me—give me thy hand; and tell
Poor Zillah——

Cain, (after a moment's stupefaction.)

My hand! 'tis all red, and with—
What?

[A long pause.—Looking slowly round.
Where am I? alone! Where's Abel? where
Cain? Can it be that I am he? My brother,

Awake!—why liest thou so on the green earth?
 'Tis not the hour of slumber:—why so pale?
 What, hast thou —thou wert full of life this morn!
 Abel! I pray thee, mock me not! I smote
 Too fiercely, but not fatally. Ah, why
 Would'st thou oppose me? This is mockery;
 And only done to daunt me:—'twas a blow—
 And but a blow. Stir—stir—nay, only stir!
 Why, so—that's well!—thou breath'st! breathe upon me!

O, God! O, God!

Abel, (very faintly). What's he who speaks of God?

Cain. Thy murderer.

Abel. Then may God forgive him! Cain,
 Comfort poor Zillah: she has but one brother
 Now.

[ABEL dies.

Cain. And I none! Who makes me brotherless?

His eyes are open! then he is not dead!
 Death is like sleep; and sleep shuts down our lids.
 His lips, too, are apart; why then he breathes!
 And yet I feel it not.—His heart!—his heart!
 Let me see, doth it beat?—methinks—No!—no!
 This is a vision, else I am become
 The native of another and worse world.
 The earth swims round me:—what is this?—'tis wet;
 [Puts his hand to his brow, and then looks at it.

And yet there are no dews! 'Tis blood—my blood—
 My brother's and my own; and shed by me!
 Then what have I further to do with life,
 Since I have taken life from my own flesh?
 But he cannot be dead!—Is silence death?
 No; he will wake: then let me watch by him.
 Life cannot be so slight, as to be quench'd
 Thus quickly;—he hath spoken to me since—
 What shall I say to him?—My brother?—No;
 He will not answer to that name; for brethren
 Smite not each other. Yet—yet—speak to me.

Oh! for a word more of that gentle voice,
That I may bear to hear my own again?

Enter ZILLAH.

Zillah. I heard a heavy sound: what can it be?
'Tis Cain; and watching by my husband. What Dost thou there brother? Doth he sleep? Oh! heav'n!
What means this paleness, and yon stream?—No! no!
It is not blood; for who would shed his blood?
Abel! what's this?—who hath done this? He moves
not;

He breathes not: and his hands drop down from mine,
With stony lifelessness! Ah! cruel Cain!
Why cam'st thou not in time to save him from
This violence! Whatever hath assail'd him,
Thou wert the stronger, and should'st have stepp'd in Between him and aggression? Father!—Eve!—
Adah!—come hither! Death is in the world!

[Exit ZILLAH, calling on her parents, &c.]

Cain, (solus.) And who hath brought him there?—I —who abhor

The name of Death so deeply, that the thought
Empoison'd all my life, before I knew
His aspect—I have led him here, and giv'n
My brother to his cold and still embrace,
As if he would not have asserted his Inexorable claim without my aid.
I am awake at last—a dreary dream
Had madden'd me; but he shall ne'er awake!

Enter ADAM, EVE, ADAH, and ZILLAH.

Adam. A voice of woe from Zillah brings me here.—
What do I see?—'Tis true!—My son!—
Woman, behold the serpent's work, and thine!

[To EVE.]

Eve. Oh! speak not of it now: the serpent's fangs
Are in my heart. My best beloved, Abel!
Jehovah! this is punishment beyond
A mother's sin, to take him from me!

Adam. Who,

Or what hath done this deed?—speak, Cain, since thou
Wert present; was it some more hostile angel,
Who walks not with Jehovah? or some wild
Brute of the forest?

Eve. Ah! a vivid light
Breaks through, as from a thunder-cloud! yon brand,
Massy and bloody! snatch'd from off the altar,
And black with smoke, and red with—

Adam. Speak, my son!
Speak, and assure us, wretched as we are,
That we are not more miserable still.

Adam. Speak, Cain! and say it was not thou!

Eve. It was.
I see it now—he hangs his guilty head,
And covers his ferocious eye with hands
Incarnadine.

Adam. Mother, thou dost him wrong—
Cain! clear thee from this horrible accusal,
Which grief wrings from our parent.

Eve. Hear, Jehovah!
May the eternal serpent's curse be on him!
For he was fitter for his seed than ours.
May all his days be desolate! May—

Adam. Hold!
Curse him not, mother, for he is thy son—
Curse him not, mother, for he is my brother,
And my betroth'd.

Eve. He has left thee no brother—
Zillah no husband—me no son!—for thus
I curse him from my sight for evermore!
All bonds I break between us, as he broke
That of his nature, in you—Oh death! death!
Why didst thou not take me, who first incurr'd thee?
Why dost thou not so now?

Adam. Eve! let not this,
Thy natural grief, lead to impiety!
A heavy doom was long forespoken to us:
And now that it begins, let it be borne

Sacrilegious also!

In such sort as may show our God, that we
Are faithful servants to his holy will.

Eve, (pointing to CAIN.) His will! the will of you—incarnate spirit

Of death, whom I have brought upon the earth
To strew it with the dead. May all the curses
Of life be on him! and his agonies
Drive him forth o'er the wilderness, like us
From Eden, till his children do by him
As he did by his brother! May the swords
And wings of fiery cherubim pursue him
By day and night—snakes spring up in his path—
Earth's fruits be ashes in his mouth—the leaves
On which he lays his head to sleep be strew'd
With scorpions! May his dreams be of his victim!
His waking a continual dread of death!
May the clear rivers turn to blood as he
Stoops down to stain them with his raging lip!
May every element shun or change to him!
May he live in the pangs which others die with!
And death itself wax something worse than death.
To him who first acquainted him with man!
Hence, fratricide! henceforth that word is Cain,
Through all the coming myriads of mankind,
Who shall abhor thee, though thou wert their sire!
May the grass wither from thy feet! the woods
Deny thee shelter! earth a home! the dust
A grave! the sun his light! and heaven her God!

[Exit EVE.]

Adam. Cain! get thee forth: we dwell no more together.

Depart! and leave the dead to me—I am
Henceforth alone—we never must meet more.

Adam. Oh, part not with him thus, my father: do not Add thy deep curse to Eve's upon his head!

Adam. I curse him not: his spirit be his curse.
Come, Zillah!

Zillah. I must watch my husband's corse.

Adam. We will return again, when he is gone
Who hath provided for us this dread office.
Come, Zillah!

Zillah. Yet one kiss on yon pale clay,
And those lips once so warm—my heart! my heart!

[Exeunt ADAM and ZILLAH, weeping]

Adah. Cain! thou hast heard, we must go forth. I am ready,
So shall our children be. I will bear Enoch,
And you his sister. Ere the sun declines
Let us depart, nor walk the wilderness
Under the cloud of night.—Nay, speak to me,
To me—thine own.

Cain. Leave me!

Adah. Why, all have left thee.

Cain. And wherefore lingerest thou! Dost thou not fear
To dwell with one who hath done this?

Adah. I fear
Nothing except to leave thee, much as I
Shrink from the deed which leaves thee brotherless.
I must not speak of this—it is between thee
And the great God.

*A voice from within exclaims—*Cain! Cain!

Adah. Hear'st thou that voice!

*The voice within—*Cain! Cain!

Adah. It soundeth like an angel's tone.

Enter the ANGEL of the Lord.

Angel. Where is thy brother Abel?

Cain. Am I then
My brother's keeper?

Angel. Cain! what hast thou done?
The voice of thy slain brother's blood cries out,
Even from the ground unto the Lord.—Now art thou
Cursed from the earth, which open'd late her mouth
To drink thy brother's blood from thy rash hand.
Henceforth, when thou shalt till the ground, it shall not Yield thee her strength; a fugitive shalt thou

Be from this day, and vagabond on earth!

Adah. This punishment is more than he can bear.
Behold, thou drivest him from the face of earth,
And from the face of God shall he be hid.

A fugitive and vagabond on earth,
'Twill come to pass, that whoso findeth him
Shall slay him.

Cain. Would they could! but who are they Shall slay me? where are these on the lone earth
As yet unpeopled?

Angel. Thou hast slain thy brother,
And who shall warrant thee against thy son?

Adah. Angel of Light! be merciful, nor say
That this poor aching breast now nourishes
A murderer in my boy, and of his father.

Angel. Then he would be but what his father is.
Did not the milk of Eve give nutriment
To him thou now see'st so besmear'd with blood?
The fratricide might well engender parricides.—
But it shall not be so—the Lord thy God
And mine commandeth me to set his seal
On Cain, so that he may go forth in safety.
Who slayeth Cain, a sevenfold vengeance shall
Be taken on his head. Come hither!

Cain. What
Would'st thou with me?

Angel. To mark upon thy brow
Exemption from such deeds as thou hast done.

Cain. No, let me die!

Angel. It must not be.

[The ANGEL sets the mark on CAIN'S brow.]

Cain. It burns

My brow, but nought to that which is within it.
Is there more? let me meet it as I may.

Angel. Stern hast thou been and stubborn from the womb,

As the ground thou must henceforth till; but he Thou slew'st was gentle as the flocks he tended.

Cain. After the fall too soon was I begotten;
 Ere yet my mother's mind subsided from
 The serpent, and my sire still mourn'd for Eden:
 That which I am, I am; I did not seek
 For life, nor did I make myself; but could I
 With my own death redeem him from the dust—
 And why not so? let him return to day,
 And I lie ghastly? so shall be restored
 By God the life to him he loved: and taken
 From me a being I ne'er lov'd to bear.

Angel. Who shall heal murder? what is done is done.

Go forth! fulfil thy days! and be thy deeds
 Unlike the last!

[The ANGEL disappears.]

Adah. He's gone, let us go forth!
 I hear our little Enoch cry within Our bower.

Cain. Ah! little knows he what he weeps for!

And I who have shed blood cannot shed tears!
 But the four rivers* would not cleanse my soul.
 Think'st thou my boy will bear to look on me?

Adah. If I thought that he would not, I would—

Cain, (interrupting her). No,

No more of threats: we have had too many of them:
 Go to our children; I will follow thee.

Adah. I will not leave thee lonely with the dead;
 Let us depart together.

Cain. Oh! thou dead
 And everlasting witness! whose unsinking
 Blood darkens earth and heaven? what thou now art,
 I know not! but if thou see'st what I am,
 I think thou wilt forgive him, whom his God

Can ne'er forgive, nor his own soul.—Farewell !
 I must not, dare not touch what I have made thee,
 I, who sprung from the same womb with thee, drain'd
 The same breast, clasped thee often to my own,
 In fondness brotherly and boyish. I
 Can never meet thee more, nor even dare
 To do that for thee, which thou should'st have done
 For me—compose thy limbs into their grave—
 The first grave yet dug for mortality.
 But who hath dug that grave? O, earth ! O, earth !
 For all the fruits thou hast render'd to me, I
 Give thee back this.—Now for the wilderness.

[ADAH stoops down and kisses the body of ABEL.]

Adah. A dreary and an early doom, my brother,
 Has been thy lot ! Of all who mourn thee,
 I alone must not weep. My office is Henceforth to dry up tears, and not to shed them ;
 But yet, of all who mourn, none mourn like me,
 Not only for thyself, but him who slew thee.
 Now Cain, I will divide thy burden with thee.

Cain. Eastward from Eden we will take our way !
 'Tis the most desolate, and suits my steps.

Adah. Lead ! thou shalt be my guide, and may our God

Be thine ! Now let us carry forth our children.

Cain. And he who lieth there was childless. I
 Have dried the fountain of a gentle race,
 Which might have grac'd his recent marriage couch,
 And might have temper'd this stern blood of mine,
 Uniting with our children Abel's offspring !
 O Abel !

Adah. Peace be with him !

Cain. But with me—

[Exeunt.]

THE END.
